Internet Connectivity Has Never Been More Important

The COVID-19 pandemic has changed daily life for everyone, and PSC was no exception. Many of our employees were working from home, our offices were closed to the public, and procedures for our field technicians had been adjusted for their safety.

What hasn't changed at PSC is our long-term commitment to keeping you connected. Years ago, we invested heavily in our fiber networks to provide reliable and virtually unlimited broadband to our service area. Today, those networks are meeting the challenge of unprecedented home internet use — one of the biggest mass behavior changes our nation has ever experienced.

As an internet service provider, we believe it's our duty to do everything possible to maintain the connections between people and vital online resources. The internet serves as a lifeline during social distancing, and we take our role seriously.

Please call us at 1-800-511-4899 if you need help with any communications issues. We also encourage you to check psci.net and our Facebook page for updates related to the pandemic. Stay safe out there!
